Seen, in the eye and the mind

The remains of 13th century Hadleigh Castle

Built when humans numbered one 20th of our current population, but were just like us in their nature

Oil pastel on card

The atomic age

Our age, each city and big town as destructive as a nuclear bomb, constantly damaging Earth

Oil pastel on card

Light

Across our solar system and far beyond, from slow red to swift white, the same colours of light that, on rare occasions in our lives, amaze us in rainbows

Oil pastel on card

Earth’s corona, or geocorona

With our satelites orbiting

Oil pastel on card

The Forest of Harris

Grown from a multitude of great glass vases the Harris brothers have made on the Isle of Wight

Oil pastel on card

Sunset on the Ebro

A passing moment near where one of my sisters lives in Spain

Oil pastel on card

St. Mary’s Church, Benfleet, England

In the town where I live

Oil pastel on card

Fractional

Banks lend more than they have got

Oil pastel on card

Shapes and colours of banking

Gold dollar pyramid, orange money lending, green borrowers getting into the red

Oil pastel on card

Cabal

The elite, in unelected power, eat gold (not spinach) to stay almost invincible
